Zir 7

Originally built years ago by some of the first space faring Chrol, it has since fallen into disrepair and ruin after the Chrol began losing their virility.

History

When the Chrol first went to the stars they wanted to make a name for themselves by building an orbital station around the nearby black hole. This seemed to be a fairly impressive feat until contact was cut due to the attack on the Chrol homeworld and subsequent rendering of most Chrol infertile.

Over the years the station's inhabitants stopped trying to get rescued and settled into their new lifestyle. Now, the heirs to the first Chrol on the station have made a tidy little home for themselves and are loath to leave, though often try to trade with passing ships.
